

Welcome to My Corner of the Web

Contributed by David Peake
Saturday, 12 August 2006
Last Updated Monday, 14 August 2006

Just how egotistical is it to have a website with your own name? Don't know, don't care ... I am too busy being impressed with myself. None the less, I hope you find something here that is useful, interesting, funny or all of the above.

The "computer guy" is an image I found on the web ten years ago and I have no idea who created it. There may be a dozen sites on the web that have this image in some way, shape or form. If anyone knows where it originated, I would be interested in knowing.

At any rate, I found that image and thought it was the perfect representation of me. The most common view my family has of me is of the back of my head while I am working at my computer.

So, anyway, thanks for coming to my site. Come back often, bring a friend .... but please, don't eat over your keyboard.